An Evening Echo.

The times are waiting for men who shall serve and not merely inquire; strive and not merely investigate; give to their age and their kind not so much learning in bulk as wisdom in action; great doing as the only true fruitage of great thinking; the consecration to the uplifting of one's fellow men of one's best rather than the conserving by mere culture of one's self.—BRISTOL POTTER.

Praises Dr. Hatfield.

The Parkersburg State Journal, which led the fight in this state for Swisher for governor, in the Hatfield band wagon now, praisers Dr. Hatfield, the nominee, as follows:

The Republicans of West Virginia chose yesterday to give the nomination for governor to Dr. H. D. Hatfield. This was their right and privilege and they chose a gentleman worthy of the honor bestowed upon him.

Dr. Hatfield made one of the greatest campaigns ever seen in the state or country, either, for the matter of that, and all he has to do is to keep it up and he will win over the Democratic nominee in the same decisive way he won yesterday's contest. Beginning his late campaign under disadvantages, he put so much energy and strength into the battle that he is invincible. Such fighting qualities are as admirable in politics as they are in war or business.

Dr. Hatfield is a man of the address and great ability. He won his way in the contest for the gubernatorial nomination by pluck, perseverance, determination, courage and force of character. He will make a splendid chief executive of this state and will fill the office to which he is to be chosen in a highly creditable way. He will, in short, be the governor of the whole people of West Virginia.

The Sooner the Better.

Dilatation in the enactment of parcels post legislation in the national Congress is but adding to the spirit of unrest that is troubling the American people at present. The people not only demand a parcels post system to relieve them of the outrageous robbery that is practiced upon them by the express companies but they have made up their minds that they are going to have it and the quicker this situation is reached in Congress the better it will be.

Reflecting this demand for immediate legislation for the parcels post, the Pittsburgh Dispatch gives the following account of the situation in Washington:

There are three parcels post bills before Congress. The postoffice appropriation bill passed by the House merely provided for an experimental rural parcels post and for an investigation of the whole question by a committee to report to the next Congress, a postponement which, however satisfactory to the express companies, can hardly satisfy the public. In the Senate it is proposed to add to the bill the Bourne parcels post measure, which would divide the country into zones in which equal rates would be charged for equal geographical distances. For rural or city delivery the rate in the Bourne bill would be as low as fifteen cents for an 11-pound package, five cents for the first pound and one cent for each additional pound, and with a zone of fifty miles six cents for the first five pounds and two cents for each additional pound.

There are two other bills in the House, the Sulzer bill which would apply a flat rate for the whole country, and the Goeke or Lewis bill, which is designated to have the gov-

SWAT THE FLY, DO IT NOW AND SPARE NOT THE FEMALE OF THE SPECIES FOR SHE'S LOTS MORE DANGEROUS THAN THE MALE

Swat the fly! You should have done it long ago, but it isn't too late yet. The fly which you saw on April 10 and tenderly permitted to live, if a female, not has nearly 200 children. Her descendants will number 7,000,000,000 on the 15th day of September unless you get busy immediately. And not one of these pesky little insects will have one half the reverence for you that you had for their ancestor on April 10.

erment pay the express companies. Neither the Bourne bill nor the Sulzer bill considers such a proceeding.

With the Senate inclined to adopt the Bourne zone proposal and the House to favor the buying out of the express companies the prospect for definite action is not bright unless the popular demand for the parcels post can be brought more imperatively to bear upon the House majority, and with the distraction of a presidential campaign this is improbable. Postmaster General Hitchcock has endorsed the zone bill as the most promising solution. Meanwhile the railroads are joining the express companies in opposing any parcels post at all with arguments that can be so easily imagined they need not be recounted. An elaborate campaign is being conducted to arouse the opposition of the country merchants to the system on the theory that the parcels post will enable the larger houses to drive them out of business. But an argument that in effect asserts that improved means of communication would be ruinous is too antiquated for this day and generation.

The educational history of the country, says the Bureau of Education's monograph when viewed from the standpoint of this latest development, shows that as the cities gradually built up, the American boys' opportunities for healthful recreation gradually diminished. There were fewer vacant lots for young America to play upon, and in still later days even cable and electric cars were powerless to make continually accessible the open places necessary for exercise and fresh air. So much time was taken up in going to and from the "athletic fields," which the schools must now provide, that little chance was left for the good, long, hard play that is so necessary for the proper development of a healthy boy. The gymnasium was a new advantage, it is true, but at least it merely gave opportunity for exercise indoors or in bad weather, which was more like work than the healthful outdoor sports and games and had the added disadvantage of making exercise a business.

Thoughtful parents were beginning to see the necessity of finding some way to keep their boys off the streets, and perhaps away from the bad associates of the hours out of school, and the only way open to them was that afforded by the boarding schools springing up all over the country, many of them under church direction or influence. Thus, among the more favorably situated classes, to send the boys away to a large boarding school of this type became the established custom.

There is no question, according to the United States Bureau of Education's publication, that a large boarding school offers great educational advantages to those boys whose fathers can afford to pay for them. "But it has one serious drawback," says Dr. Myers. "It cuts off the boy from home when 12 or 15 years old, the very age of all others when he needs the influences centering around home and family, which are of greater importance than any other in the life of a normal, well-trained, healthy child. The influence of a teacher is tremendous, but at best it can only supplement and add to that of a conscientious father and tender mother." Realizing this difficulty, the country school was founded, and it bids fair to make on the educational history of our time a still greater mark than it has already made in the comparatively short time it has been in existence.

Country Day Schools. "Back to the country" is the cry of the advocates of one of our sanest philanthropic movements. To free thousands of our best citizens from the unwholesome and harmful influences of crowded houses, poor light, and bad air, and to restore them to the open fields, a freedom from unnatural restraints, and the blessings of God's sunshine, are held to be objects worthy of the best efforts of the American people.

Realizing this fact, philanthropists have made an effort to find some means by which boys who live in the city may spend at least the day in the country, and at the same time have the advantages of an education in the best schools. Some people of means, those who can afford the money necessary for an experiment, have hit upon a plan which has solved the problem, it is believed, and that is the plan of founding "country day schools for city boys." And girls, too, are going to be included among those who share the benefits of this movement. These country day schools are described by Dr. William Starr Myers, assistant professor of history and politics, Princeton University, in a publication just issued for free distribution by the United States Bureau of Education.

Up to fifteen years ago the only two possible things for the city family, if a healthy outdoor life was desired for the children, was to live at a country home six months of the year and each day send the children in town to school, or else break all home ties for a large part of the year by sending the boys and girls away to a boarding school. A group of men and women of intelligence and enterprise in Baltimore had the vision of a better plan and the faith to act upon it, and the Gilman Country School for Boys, a new type of educational institution, is the result.

Many remarkable results obtained. There are many thousands of debilitated, nervous men and women in this country who will read this item with much interest. Not in many years has a new product created so much interest and now going on over the entire country, a most remarkable triumph of pharmacy now obtainable generally at drug stores, and known to the trade as Wade's Golden Nervine.

The fact that this product contains no alcohol, morphine, or any other narcotic whatever, and while being exceptionally soothing to the nerves is at the same time a most efficient upbuilding and nutrient tonic for the discerning men and women who feel the need of genuine restorative treatment which is free from all objectionable ingredients.

Some of the druggists report the demand for Wade's Golden Nervine is such as to warrant them in buying direct from the laboratories of the manufacturer. This was the case at F. G. Bland's.

If you are a housewife you cannot reasonably hope to be healthy or beautiful by washing, darning, and doing housework all day, and crawling into bed dead tired at night. You must get out into the open air and sunlight. If you do this every day and keep your stomach and bowels in good order by taking Chamberlain's Tablets when needed, you should become both healthy and beautiful. For sale by all dealers.

Service. Some guarantees are like a fire department which will put out your fire if you bring your building around while it is burning.

Burroughs Service comes to the "fire" before the idleness of your machine causes a serious loss.

An insurance policy doesn't remove the need for a fire department. Neither can perfect material and workmanship in the product prevent accidents in its use.

When a manufacturer tells you his product is so perfect you don't need service—that he won't give service—better compare his guarantee to a stationary fire department.

Perfect construction is good. We can't afford to make it anything but "fireproof," because we have to take care of the "fire."

was a mass of flame when the city fire department arrived on the scene and the workers in the shop had time only to carry out about two armfuls of clothing belonging to customers. Hugh P. Martin, a tailor employed in the shop, had been using the gasoline when the explosion occurred, but he declares there was no flame within quite a distance of the fluid and none whatever in the room in which the pan containing it was standing. He rushed to the pan when the gasoline exploded and tried to extinguish the flames, but the attempt was futile and he was compelled to make a hasty retreat. He suffered slight burns on a wrist and arm.

Henry Heizer, manager of the pressing company, says its loss will be about $4,000, which is offset by insurance of only $1,000. Three steam pressing machines were considerably damaged, two sewing machines were destroyed and about fifty suits of clothes belonging to customers were burned to ashes, in addition to the rest of the fixtures, machinery and stock.

Practically all the bottled stock of the Frost company's store was arranged upon shelves along the wall next to the pressing shop. This wall was burned and the most of the bottled stock was ruined. Other stock and fixtures were damaged by fire, smoke and water. The company's loss is fully offset by insurance.

One thousand dollars will probably cover the loss to the Latstetter buildings. The building in which the pressing shop was situated was insured for $350.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.
Mr. Mrs. Pickett, of Mt. Clare, while engaged with a hatchet and staple, was struck by lightning at 8 o'clock this morning and rendered unconscious for an hour. He is out of danger now.
